

1992

Newspaper Clippings

Hectic Year for Top Student

Huntly Press, January 15, 1992

Regan MacDonald crammed a lot of things into his final year at Ngaruawahia High School yet still managed to achieved proxime accessit to cap it all off.

Not the least of the 17 year old achievements was his editorship of the school magazine.

Boasting gloss, a wide selection of photographs with a centre fold-out and good clean layout, the 76-page magazine was produced within budget.

As well as the usual class and sports photographs and informal snaps taken on camps and trips, Regan included short articles from students and a couple of his own zany articles.

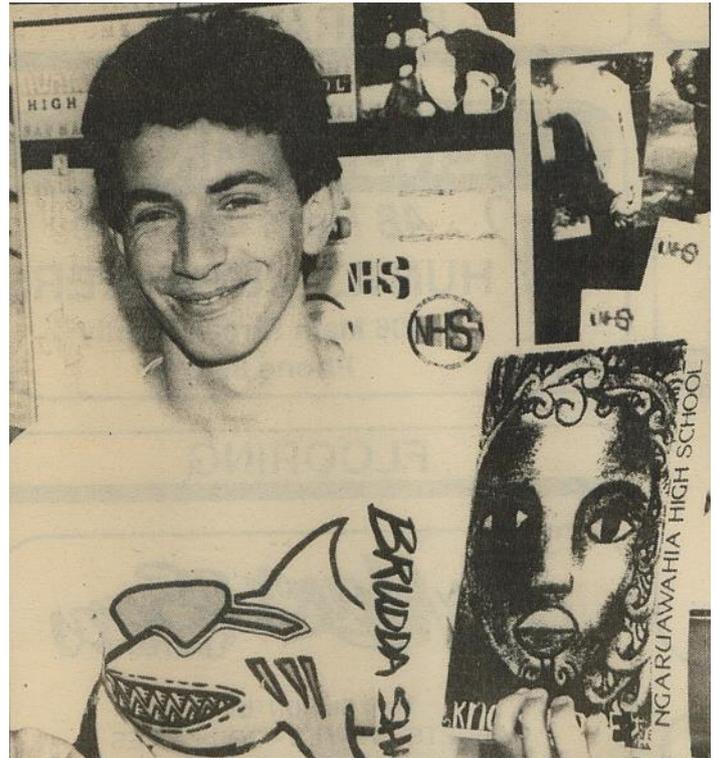

He was editor of last year's issue too, but with less responsibility.

"One of our teachers, Mrs (Lorraine) Middleton, gave a lot of help arranging the advertising and taking all the photos.

A keen computer buff, Regan produced the pages and designed the advertising on his Atari STE using a desktop publishing programme. The result is a very attractive and professional looking magazine.

1991 Yearbook

1992 Yearbook

Regan MacDonald with the 76-page 1991 school magazine he managed to edit in between his studies.

His bursary subjects were physics, art design, economics, calculus and statistics and he took a graphics and design course and did seventh form computer studies.

He was also chairperson of the Student Council and student representative on the Board of Trustees.

He gained the Templeton Award for Senior Draughtsmanship and Technology.

Regan is hoping to attend Waikato University to take a degree in Computing and Mathematical Sciences.